The ROSI Story

In 1993, there was a large demand for remanufactured office cubicles in the Houston area. So, John Ofield put together a workshop with a highly skilled team that went to work redesigning and reimagining used Haworth cubicles. And, ROSI (Recycled Office Systems, Inc.) was born!

The Haworth cubicle was chosen due to the well-designed steel frames and durable craftsmanship that went into the original product. It ensured these frames would withstand many years of use and reuse. In fact, the remanufactured product looks as polished and professional as new but costs 40% less and John and the team have been quite busy for over 20 years!

As customer demand grew, evolved and expanded, John realized his customers needed more than remanufactured cubicles. They also needed office chairs, reception furniture, filing cabinets, and EVERYTHING OFFICE. A full-service office furniture dealership was born offering even more, including: rentals, data cabling, storage, moving, and liquidation services. Really anything an office needs relating to the design and implementation of furnishings can be done. We even create 2D and 3D complimentary space plans. In fact, we've changed our name to reflect our broader scope to ROSI Office Systems.

The cubicle is evolving. An open workstation environment is now in approximately 80% of office space in the U.S., and that number is growing. But, not every office needs the same type of open office.

ROSI's professional space planners and project consultants know how to integrate an open office style while still incorporating the tools needed, such as privacy screens and sound absorbing fabrics. It's important to provide an array of workspaces so all types of employees can give their best.

OPEN OFFICE TIPS:

Designing workspaces so that employees can see people approaching helps to protect their sense of privacy.

A winning design incorporates both collaborative and private space to allow employees to migrate according to their project.

Cubicles provide space for more concentration and privacy, while open areas with team desking or conference rooms allow employees to work together when doing so will be beneficial to their projects.

INCREASE PRODUCTIVITY

According to Paul Rosch, MD, President of the American Institute of Stress, a nonprofit research and information organization, job stress is estimated to cost U.S. industry more than $300 billion a year in absenteeism, turnover, diminished productivity, and medical, legal and insurance costs. And, according to the American Psychological Association, 52 percent of Americans report that they have considered workplace stress a significant when looking for a new job, declining a promotion or leaving a job altogether.

WORKPLACE WELLNESS

The success of these programs is evaluated in terms of measurable bottom-line improvements. A study published in the February, 2010 issue of Health Affairs, found that for every dollar invested in a comprehensive workplace wellness program, companies saved $3.27 in medical costs and $2.73 in costs related to absenteeism.

ATTRACT TOP TALENT

Employees and onboarding are an investment and finding the right talent is becoming more and more difficult. The supply and demand of talent has shifted. What was once an Employer's market is now driven by the shortage of skilled labor created by the exodus of the Baby Boomer from the job market.

Once you've found the right talent, creating a comfortable and functional environment with optional spaces for different job demands will set you apart. Your employees will be happy, healthy and productive. They'll want to stay and tell others about the great company and culture they work in.

Visit the ROSI downtown Houston or Stafford showroom for a firsthand look at our Work Fit line of products including Focal Upright (shown left). We will help you create the best layout and find office furniture you and your employees need. A healthy, happy and productive workforce for a healthy bottom line.
